

Seeking applicants to join Casey House's Board of Directors and Board committees

Casey House is unlike any other hospital. We are a specialty hospital in Toronto providing ground-breaking care to people living with and at risk of HIV. Together with our clients, staff, peers and volunteers, we create an inclusive environment where everyone feels safe. We offer a growing mix of inpatient, outpatient and community-based services that meet clients where they are in their individual journeys. Building on a legacy of advocacy and social justice, we strive to actively dismantle barriers to care and safe living. We provide a community and sense of belonging that connects people to care. The humanity of each client is at the heart of everything we do.

The Board of Directors is currently recruiting volunteers to fill a limited number of positions on the board and board committees (including the finance and foundation committees). This year, our search is focused on candidates who identify as Indigenous or people of colour with information technology, human resources, fundraising or nursing expertise.

The ideal candidate is committed to Casey House's mission, values and strategic directions, and has experience or knowledge in corporate or not-for-profit board governance.

Casey House welcomes applicants from all communities and particularly encourages people living with HIV to apply.
